

City of Flint
Office of Mayor

Proclamation

Whereas:

September 22, 2014 has been designated as the day for recognizing the exceptional achievements of the Flint Infinite Scholars Program; and

WHEREAS: This impressive and innovative scholarship program has had a tremendous impact on minority students, particularly African-American and Spanish Speaking Americans. The program, founded by Mr. Thomas Ousley, affords young people who otherwise might not receive financial assistance the opportunity and support needed for them to develop their talents and pursue their goals; and

WHEREAS: We recognize the importance and value of a college education and applaud Mott Community College, Baker College, University of Michigan-Flint, Kettering University and Davenport University for instituting inclusive policies and financial assistance to aid in the development of future leaders of our country; and

WHEREAS: As mothers, fathers, grandparents, aunts, uncles, friends and neighbors, let us collectively support this program so that our young people will be able to expand their educational horizons and realize their dreams. Let us also applaud Mr. Thomas Ousley for his hard work, dedication and commitment in making certain that hundreds of minority students receive scholarships and continue to aim high.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Dayne Walling, Mayor of the City of Flint, do hereby proclaim Monday September 22, 2014, to be:

FLINT INFINITE SCHOLARS DAY

in the City of Flint, and I invite the citizens of the Flint community to join me as I salute the Flint Infinite Scholars Program for positively impacting the lives of so many Flint students.

Dayne Walling, Mayor
City of Flint
